

#SavePublicTransit social posts

Transit agency posts

61% of public transit systems will need to reduce service and furlough employees without an additional $32 billion in emergency federal funding from Congress. Don't leave Americans without essential transit service. #SavePublicTransit

Don't leave [Add Your Community] residents without essential transit service. Congress needs to act NOW to #SavePublicTransit

Our essential workers in [Add Your Community] need public transit to get to jobs in hospitals and grocery stores. Congress needs to act NOW to #SavePublicTransit

The economy can't recover without public transit services. Congress needs to act NOW to #SavePublicTransit

[Organization Name] joins transit systems across the country in urging Congress to act NOW to #Save Public Transit

Without at least $32 billion in emergency funding public transit systems will be forced to further reduce service and routes and implement labor cuts that will devastate families and communities for years to come. #SavePublicTransit

We urge both Congressional leaders and the Administration to enact at least $32B in COVID-19 emergency transit funding legislation before Congress adjourns for the year. The public transportation industry's very survival is at stake. #SavePublicTransit

77 percent of American voters support emergency funding for public transportation so that front line workers can get to jobs and to help the economy recover. #SavePublicTransit

74 percent of American voters approve of the new Administration and Congress taking action to fix the public transportation infrastructure crisis facing our nation. #SavePublicTransit

Business member posts

Nearly one-half of public transit industry businesses (47 percent) expect to lay off employees if at least $32B in additional federal funding is not provided. Tell Congress to act now to #SavePublicTransit

[Business Name] joins public transit systems and businesses in calling on Congress to act NOW to #SavePublicTransit

Nearly one-third of transit industry businesses (31 percent) are concerned that they may go out of business if additional federal funding is not provided. Tell Congress to act NOW to #SavePublicTransit

We urge both Congressional leaders and the Administration to enact at least $32B in COVID-19 emergency transit funding legislation before Congress adjourns for the year. The public transportation industry's very survival is at stake. #SavePublicTransit

77 percent of American voters support emergency funding for public transportation so that front line workers can get to jobs and to help the economy recover. #SavePublicTransit

74 percent of American voters approve of the new Administration and Congress taking action to fix the public transportation infrastructure crisis facing our nation. #SavePublicTransit